IV. Writing.

Task A: A letter to Your Future Self.

Hello, my future self. I hope you're doing well. I don't think I changed too much, but I hope that my skills in English improved. It would be really good. Also, I'd really love to see how do I look in the future. Will I change or will my hobbies, preferences and interests become different? That's the most interesting thing to me. Today, my hobbies are drawing and learning English. My favourite food is the meal ~~any~~ that my mother makes and my favourite colour is white. I still hope I didn't change too much. But it depends on the time and the people around me. Besides, I really want to know if I graduated from school successfully and began to study in the university of my dreams. Also, I love my parents very much and I hope that they're not disappointed in me. Honestly, I'd like to find a good job and help my parents financially. I want to believe that I achieved all my goals and became the person that I wanted to be. I'm looking forward to know more about it. There's no way to fix anything in the past, but at least my future depends on myself and only I have the right to change my own life. I hope that it went well and I did a good job.
